

THE RIGHT AND LEFT GAME TO START A CLASS

Give out one or two small wrapped gifts (Classic Products are a great choice). Tell the group that they are to hand the gift to the person on their right when they hear the word “right” and to the left when they hear the word “left”. At the end, the two people holding the prizes get to keep them.

Dreams Do Come True!

Once upon a time, an attractive, ambitious woman went into a beautiful designer furniture store and said to the owner,

“Sir, I would like to work for you. I have researched your company and find it to be #1 in the industry with a reputation for excellent quality! I will work hard. I will do a GREAT job telling others about your fine store right away, and in return I ask for the following:

1. When I tell people about your premier products and service, I'm sure some will want to go right out and purchase them. For everything I sell, I want to be left with 50% commission.
2. I know that I can get others to sell for you, too, and for getting right down to work & helping to build the business, I want to be paid a commission of 4 to 12 per cent each month on not what they have left but all they sell. Right? Right! I want them to also be left with 50% commissions and receive all the same benefits that I do.
3. I want to work my own hours, schedule my own vacations and do right by my family as will always come first and never be left behind.
4. When I continue to work I want to earn the FREE new car such as a Ford Fiesta, Fusion, or Edge, a shiny black BMW or a Pink CADILLAC with plush interiors and all the right extras. I can also choose a cash option if that is more right for us.

5. When I do really well, I want to receive recognition and bonuses, not little things, like turkeys or hams that you have left over but awards like CASH bonuses,

DIAMOND Jewellery, and LUXURY TRIPS!

6. Lastly, I don't want to be left behind but I want to be able to promote myself right to the top of the management ladder entirely through my own efforts. Can you do all this for me?"

The owner was in shock! He roared with condescending laughter. Then he said,

"No, not one of those is right! Lady, you're living in a dream world! You can't find an opportunity like that left anywhere in this world! "

* Well what she just described is available through a Mary Kay business. You can choose to have all this and more or even just a few extra dollars. You and your family deserve to choose your lifestyle! If something you have heard in this story sounds interesting, ask your consultant for more information.

Now, whomever ended up with a gift, open and enjoy.
